CIRCULAR.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE AND HYDROGRAPHY,

NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY,

January 22, 1862.

The present edition of the "Naval Telegraphic Signal Book" being exhausted, the "Flotilla and Boat Squadron Signals" may be used in its place by vessels that are not provided with it.

Should it be necessary to spell a word not found in the "Flotilla Signals," the numbers from 1 to 26, inclusive, may be used as letters of the alphabet for that purpose; first hoisting No. 7521 of the Flotilla Code, to indicate that a word is to be spelled.

A. A. HARWOOD,

Chief of Bureau.

Approved:

GIDEON WELLES.

PREFACE.

THIS Code of Flotilla and Boat Signals has been hurriedly prepared to meet the pressing wants of the Navy at this time. The work was commenced in the form believed to be the best adapted to Flotilla and Boat Squadron service, and was continued as other pressing duties would permit.

Want of time would not allow the completion of the entire work, nor of any of its separate parts, before putting it in the hands of the printer; and, to secure the greatest possible expedition in getting it out, the pages were put in type as rapidly as they could be written.

Had time and other duties permitted a more satisfactory arrangement of the "Evolutionary," "Vocabulary," and "Geographical" parts would have been made.

The general plan of this Code of Signals is similar, in many respects, to the "Complete and Universal Dictionary of Signals," by Captain Wilmot, R. N., C. B.

INTRODUCTION.

Although this Code of Signals is designed mainly for the use of small vessels and boats formed in squadron and divisions, yet it may be found useful and convenient for general use in squadrons composed of vessels of all classes.

FLAGS.—The flags to be used in making the signals embraced in this code are the same as those in the "General Naval Signal Book."

The same or any other numbers may be assigned to them; but, unless there should be some special reason for assigning different numerical values to the flags when using this Code of Signals, it will be advisable to use the same flags to represent the same numbers in both codes, making the signals embraced in the Naval General Signal Book, according to their numbers, in the usual way, and by hoisting or exhibiting the "Flotilla and Boat Code Pendant" when the flags shown are to represent numbers in this code.

In addition to the flags used on board the United States vessels of war for making signals with the Naval General Signal Book, there will be found in this code—

1. FLOTILLA AND BOAT CODE PENDANT.
2. COMMERCIAL SIGNALS CODE PENDANT.
3. GEOGRAPHICAL PART OF THIS CODE PENDANT.
4. STEAMERS' CORNET FOR THIS CODE.
5. ENSIGN.
6. UNION JACK.
7. CORNET.
8. FLAG OFFICERS' FLAGS.
9. LONG PENDANT.
10. GENERAL RECALL FOR ALL BOATS.
11. COMMANDERS OF DIVISIONS PENDANTS.
12. DIVISIONAL DISTINGUISHING PENDANTS.
13. BOATS' RECALL PENDANTS, embracing all boats usually furnished to vessels of war.
14. STEAM OR RESERVE SQUADRON PENDANT.
15. CONVOY PENDANT.

HOMOGRAPHIC SYMBOLS.—In addition to the FLAGS designed and arranged for use with this Code of Signals, there are "HOMOGRAPHIC SYMBOLS," with a numerical value assigned to each, from 1 to 0, and for repeating symbols and answering signals, with which any number embraced in this Code of "Evolutionary" and "Vocabulary Signals" may be made by day without flags. These "Homographic Symbols" have been taken (with slight modifications) from the "DICTIONARY OF SIGNALS, BY CAPTAIN WILMOT, R. N., C. B."

NIGHT SIGNALS.—The mode of using "Coston's Prepared Lights" for night signals is explained, and charts or plans, showing the different combinations of colored lights to which numerical values may be assigned, are given.

NAVAL COLORED LIGHTS.—A chart or plan showing the different colored (and combinations of colored) lights which may be used in making signals with the lights known as "Naval colored lights" is also given in this Code of Signals.

By the Coston plan, or by using the naval colored lights to represent the numerals, &c., according to the directions, any signal found in the "Evolutionary" and "Vocabulary parts," and any vessels' or boats' numbers, may be made at night.—(See pages 148 and 153.)

A few signals for night service, to be made with rockets, blue lights, lanterns, flashes, and guns or musketry, willl be found on page 154 et seq.

Fog Signals.—But few fog signals can be made from or to boats with the means usually at command. A few signals for foggy weather will be found under the proper heading on page 161.

Equipment of Boats armed for service.—The instructions embraced in the "Naval Ordnance Instructions" of 1860 have been incorporated into this Code of Signals to enable commanding officers of boats to satisfy themselves that nothing has been omitted in their fitments when ordered on service from their ships.

Boat Drill under oars.—A few evolutionary signals, with numbers attached, arranged in alphabetical order, have been inserted at pages 178–'9, designed to serve chiefly in drill practice, but will be found of easy reference and useful, especially in cases in which the commander may desire to exercise his boats by signal from his ship. Blank numbers have been left which may be filled by the insertion of any orders that may be thought expedient.

Vessels' Lights.—The general order of the Secretary of the Navy, dated November 10, 1858, directing the number and kind of lights to be carried by all vessels of the navy from sunset to sunrise, has been inserted, with the diagrams attached, to enable officers to familiarize themselves with the different positions of vessels as they may be shown by their lights at night, and to enable them to guard against collisions.

Rules of the Road.—Although all officers who have served in the navy long enough to be entrusted with the deck of a vessel of war at night are supposed to be perfectly familiar with the rules which govern seamen in the management of their vessels in crowded and narrow channels, and in meeting or crossing the line of course of other vessels at sea to prevent collisions, yet it has been thonght advisable to repeat, in this Code of Signals, the rules laid down by the Navy Department on this subject—those generally, if not universally, recognized by seamen everywhere; and also those rules which have been published officially by the British admiralty. The insertion of these "Rules of the Road," in this Code of Signals, may, and it is hoped will, be the means of impressing upon those, into whose hands it may be placed, (who have not hitherto attached due importance to the subject,) the necessity for constant watchfulness, and the great caution which should be observed in approaching vessels at night, whose movements are not clearly seen or understood.

Distress or Assistance Signals.—The book concludes with a few arbitrary signs or signals for the use of persons in distress, or in want of immediate assistance, who have neither flags nor signal book. They are few and simple, and may be made useful to boats' crews and seamen generally, to whom they should be taught.

DIRECTIONS.

1. When this Code of Signals is to be used for communicating with boats, vessels, or squadrons, the "FLOTILLA AND BOAT SQUADRON" PENDANT is to be hoisted or exhibited where it can be best seen and kept up until all the signals are made.

2. Each Commanding Officer of a Division will carry his proper DISTINGUISHING PENDANT.

3. Each vessel or boat of a Division will carry the DIVISION PENDANT of the particular division to which it may be attached.—(See Squadron and Divisional Pendants.)

4. Each Vessel or Boat of an entire Squadron may have, in addition to its divisional flag or pendant, an independent number assigned to it in the Boat Squadron list or in the list of Navy Vessels in this Code, or special flags or pendants may be given to each vessel.

5. In making signals to a Squadron, Division, Vessel, or Boat, the number or distinguishing pendant must be hoisted above the signal flags, or exhibited from some other part of the vessel or boat at the time of making the signal.

6. All Signals are to be answered as soon as they are made out.

7. The PREPARATORY PENDANT hoisted over a signal will indicate PREPARE to execute the signal under it.

8. A Signal made with the Preparatory Pendant above it will not be executed until it is repeated without the Preparatory Pendant.

9. All Signals made without the Preparatory Pendant above them are to be executed as soon as they are hauled down.

10. The execution of Signals which are not complete in themselves is not to be commenced, nor the signal executed, until the signal flags which complete the signal are hauled down.

11. Each Vessel and Boat of squadron, division, or column, will watch the movements of the Vessel or Boat next ahead, and regulate its movements accordingly.

12. NUMERAL Signals will be indicated by the Numeral Pendant hoisted over the flags representing the numbers to be communicated.

13. GEOGRAPHICAL PENDANT.—All places named in the Geographical Part of this Code will be indicated by the flags representing the numbers assigned to them with the Geographical Pendant hoisted either above or below them according to the directions at the head of the page on which they appear.

14. VESSELS' NUMBERS.—Vessels' numbers, as assigned in this Code, will be made by hoisting the UNION JACK over the signal flags at the fore or forward.

15. UNION JACK.—The Union Jack hoisted at the fore, without signal flags, will indicate, in want of a pilot.

16. The UNION JACK hoisted at the mizen will indicate a court-martial in session.

17. CORNET.—The Naval Cornet at the fore, with signal flags at another part of the vessel, will indicate intention to communicate by the Naval Telegraphic Dictionary.

18. The Naval Cornet hoisted at the fore, with signal flags under it, will indicate the number of the vessel as recorded in the Naval General Signal Book.

19. The Naval Cornet hoisted at the fore, without other flags at any part of the vessel, will indicate RECALL of all officers and boats not specially directed otherwise.

20. GENERAL RECALL.—When the GENERAL RECALL flag is hoisted or shown, it will indicate that all vessels or boats are to return to their stations, or all boats to return to their vessels, as the case may be.

21. BOAT RECALLS.—When the Recall Pendant of any boat is hoisted or shown, she will return immediately to her station or ship, as the case may be.

22. LATITUDE and LONGITUDE.—When Latitude or Longitude is to be communicated by signal, the NUMERAL PENDANT will be hoisted over the flags representing the degrees; the ANSWERING PENDANT will be bent on next below, and the flags representing the minutes below it.

23. COMPASS SIGNALS.—The Compass Signals to Points will be found on page 5, and also around a COMPASS CARD in the Introduction. The signal will be dropped once and hoisted up again for a quarter of a Point; twice, for half a Point; and three times, for three-quarters of a Point; always counting to the right.

24. REPEATERS.—The first repeater repeats the first flag in the order of reading; the second repeater the second flag, and the third repeater the third flag, in the same hoist.

25. INTERROGATORY PENDANT.—The Interrogatory Pendant hoisted above signal flags will signify either a question asked in relation to, or permission wished, to do that which is expressed by the signal.

26. QUARANTINE FLAG.—A Yellow flag will be hoisted while in quarantine and until pratique is granted.

27. POWDER FLAG.—A RED FLAG is hoisted while receiving or landing powder.

28. MEAL PENDANT.—The MEAL (Numeral) Pendant is hoisted during meal hours on board all vessels of the Navy.

STEAMERS.

29. STEAMER'S CORNET.—The Steamer's Cornet will be hoisted or exhibited where it can be readily seen when the STEAMER'S SIGNALS of this Code (pages 100 to 103) are used in communicating with vessels or boats.

30. TOWING.—The PREPARATORY PENDANT hoisted at the fore, or exhibited forward when there are no masts, without other pendants or flags, will indicate READINESS TO BE TAKEN IN TOW.

"SIGNAL FLAGS CHANGE," OR, "SYMBOLS CHANGE."

1. When the number 3838, on page 49, is made, the numerical value or symbolic characteristic of the Flags in the table in the signal book is to be changed for the time being in the manner prescribed in the note to the signal at the head of page 50.

2. When number 7852 (on page 89) is made ("SYMBOLS CHANGE") and answered by all the vessels or boats of the squadron present, it is to be understood that so long as that order continues in force the reading of the flags will be reversed—that is, in making and reading signals, they will be made and read from the bottom or lowest flag to the top or uppermost one, being the reverse of the usual mode of making and reading them.

3. Change of the numerical value of the flags or symbols may be a pri- vate signal also. A certain combination may be determined upon by the Flag officer or commander of the squadron or expedition, which he names CHANGE OF SYMBOLS No. 1, another No. 2, and so on. These combinations and numbers having been previously communicated to the commander of each division, vessel, or boat, the signal No. 7852 is made "SYMBOLS CHANGE," and followed immediately by the number one, two or other number previously selected to represent each change with the numeral pendant above it.

4. These orders of hoisting and reading signals, or changes of values of flags and symbols, are not, however, to continue, when made by signal, after separating from the commanding officer who gave the order by signal, except in the event of a part of the vessels of the squadron being temporarily detached and sent on an expedition or on other service, and to rejoin the squadron in the same vicinity.

5. When a vessel falls in with another vessel of the same or of any other squadron which was not present when the change of values of the flags and symbols was ordered, the signals will be read and made in the ordinary way, and according to the values of the flags and symbols in the Table in the Signal Book.

6. COMMERCIAL CODE OF SIGNALS.—The Commercial Code of Signals having been furnished to vessels of the Navy, the BRIEF RULES, DIRECTIONS and INSTRUCTIONS to guide officers in using it, are reproduced here.

Brief rules and directions to guide Commanders of Vessels belonging to or under the orders of the Navy Department of the United States in using the "Commercial Code of Signals."

1. One copy of the "Commercial Code of Signals" will be furnished to the commanding officer of every vessel in any way connected with, and under the orders of the Navy Department; and it will be the duty of every commanding officer who may be provided with Signal Books to receipt for them; to take personal charge of them; to prevent their being examined or used by any person not holding a responsible position on board the vessel under his command; and in the event of the loss of the vessel or imminent danger of capture by an enemy or rebel, he must use his best efforts to destroy them effectually.

2. One set of "Rogers's Marine Signal Flags" (see page XXXIV of the Code) will be furnished, and also a Cornet and Telegraphic Dictionary.

3. When serving in squadron the commanding officer may, if he see fit, use the Telegraphic Dictionary with the Commercial Code and flags in communicating with vessels which are not provided with the Naval Signal Book and flags. In that case the flags representing the letters B, C, D, F, G, H, J, K, L, M, will represent, respectively, in the order in which they stand, the numerals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0, and the ASSENT FLAG will represent the first repeater, the NEGATIVE FLAG the second repeater, and the CODE SIGNAL and Answering Pendant, will represent the third repeater.

4. The "CORNET" at the fore-royal masthead, or in steamers without masts, hoisted to the pendant staff forward, will indicate telegraphing with the Telegraphic Dictionary.

5. Inasmuch as telegraphing with the Telegraphic Dictionary will only be occasional and temporary, the flags on page XXXIV of the CODE should be numbered opposite to their respective letters, in pencil only, for reference, and to prevent mistakes by trusting entirely to memory.

6. Vessels alone, or at sea, having no other general Signal Book than this on board, approached by or falling in with a strange sail, will be careful not to run the risk of exposing her own character to the stranger by attempting to communicate with her by signal, unless satisfied that the stranger is a friend.

Instructions to communicate with a Vessel, Fort, or Station.

1. Bend on the Ensign with Code Signal under it, (see page XXXIV,) and hoist.

2. Search in the alphabetical part of the Code, Part II, from pages 115 to 278, for the commanding word of the sentence you wish to communicate. For example: you wish to report that you have been attacked and want assistance. You search and find the commanding word ATTACK on page 127, and running your eye down to find the proper expression to use you find it; and on the right of it you find the letters N K. These letters N K are then bent on to the signal halliards and run up to the masthead or hoisted from a place on board whence the signal can be seen to the best advantage.

Turning over to Part I, and running your eye along the columns for the letters, (which are combined in regular order,) you find N K on page 3, being the same signal. Or if you wish to direct a vessel or vessels in company and under your orders to make more sa l, you find the commanding word SAIL on page 238, and running your eye down the column for the desired expression and finding "MAKE MORE SAIL," with the letters J V on the right, (having the Code Signal under the ensign hoisted,) you hoist J V, and the order is given. When answered, haul it down. Or you may find an expression suited to the occasion with no letters on the right; then the letters on the left are to be employed. For example: you wish to say to vessels in company "I shall keep under easy sail," and you find on the left of the sentence D R P V. The flags representing these letters are to be bent on and hoisted in that order.

In reading signals made to you, if of two or three flags representing two or three letters, the meaning will be found readily in Part I. If of four flags, then it will be found in Part II.

GENERAL SIGNALS. PART I.

3. These signals, from page 1 to page 3, embracing "DEMAND," "COMPASS," "ASSISTANCE," "BOATS," "DANGER," "DIRECTIONS," "SHIPWRECK," "DISTRESS," "FIRE," "LEAK," and "WANTS," should be studied, so that in case of wishing to make any of them they may be readily turned to in the book.

4. By examining closely, and impressing on the memory the signals embraced in Part I, from page 5 to page 52, relating to "GETTING ASHORE, SICK, COLLISIONS AT SEA, DISPATCHES, MAILS, NEWS, PRIVATEERS, SUSPICIOUS VESSELS, INTERCOURSE WITH THE SHORE, LATITUDE AND LONGITUDE, OBSERVATIONS, POSITION, TIME, WEATHER, WINDS, ASSISTANCE, BOATS, REPAIRS, PROVISIONS, BOILERS, ENGINES, FUEL, STEAM, TOWING, ANCHORAGE, DEPTH OF WATER, LIGHTS, LAND-MARKS, COURSE TO STEER, GETTING UNDER WAY, SAIL, WORKING SHIP," &c., they may be readily found and made.

GEOGRAPHICAL SIGNALS.

5. Signals of the names of places on the coast of the United States will be found on pages 102 and 103, Part 1, and the names of places alphabetically arranged from page 279 to 325, Part II.

CHANGE OF SYMBOLS.

Changing the symbolic characters of the flags representing either letters of the alphabet (as on page XXXIV of the Code) or of the numerals representing them, when using the Naval Telegraphic Dictionary.

1. Ordinarily the upper flag represents the first letter, the next below the second letter, &c., or, with numerals, the upper flag represents the first numeral, the next below the second numeral, &c.; or, in other words, the signals are read off by commencing with the upper flag.

2. The Commanding Officer of a squadron may think proper to change the symbolic character of the flags as they are represented in the Signal Book, at a time when it may not be practicable or convenient to communicate with all the vessels except by signal.

3. To do this by the COMMERCIAL CODE, he must make signal "SYMBOLS CHANGE."—(Page 258, D W K T.) When that signal is made and answered by all the vessels present, it is to be understood that so long as that order continues in force the reading of the flags will be reversed—that is, in making and reading signals they will be made and read from the bottom flag to the top, being the reverse of the usual mode of making and reading them.

4. Or the signification of the signal flags may be changed simply by the Commander-in-chief making the signal "SYMBOLS CHANGE," and at the same time, or immediately after hauling down that signal, by hoisting the flags in the order in which he wishes them construed in making signals for the time being.

5. The answer to that signal (4) will be to hoist the same signal flags by each vessel in the order in which they are shown by the flag ship, and read them in the ordinary way, from top to bottom.

6. This last mode (4 and 5) of changing symbols can be effected with certainty only where there is sufficient hoist for all the flags to be clearly seen and unmistakably recognized at one hoist, but a less number than the whole of the set of flags may be hoisted at one time, followed immediately by those next in the order in which they are to be recognized, until all of the flags of the Code are shown.

7. Change of symbols may be a private signal also. A certain combination may be determined upon by the Flag officer which he names, change of symbols No. 1, another No. 2, and so on. These combinations and numbers having been previously communicated to the Commander of each vessel in the squadron, the signal "SYMBOLS CHANGE" is made, and followed immediately by the numeral, on page 3 of the Code.

8. These orders of hoisting and reading signals, however, are not to continue, when made by signal, after separating from the Commanding officer who gave the order by signal, except in the event of a part of the vessels of the squadron being temporarily detached and sent on an expedition, or on other service, and to rejoin the squadron in the same vicinity.

9. When a vessel falls in with another vessel of the same or of any other squadron which was not present when the change of symbols was ordered, the signals will be read and made in the ordinary way.

SHIP'S NUMBERS.

A list of all the vessels in the Navy, or in the employment of the Navy Department, with their numbers, will be furnished to the Commanding officer of each vessel.

1. To make the number of the ship or vessel hoist the Code signal under the Ensign, to indicate the Code of signals used; then bend on the CORNET ABOVE THE THREE FLAGS representing the numeral (page 73) corresponding to the number of the vessel.

2. In case the number representing the vessel exceeds 100, then hoist 100, (W H L;) when seen and answered haul it down and bend on the remainder, under the cornet, necessary to complete the vessel's number. In case the number should exceed two hundred, then W H L must be hoisted or repeated twice, and the additional number also hoisted afterwards. If three hundred or more, then W H L must be hoisted or repeated three different times, &c.

PRIVATE SIGNALS.

A private signal might be given to all the vessels which are provided with the Commercial Code and Rogers's Marine Signal Flags, by which they might be readily recognized by Naval vessels. These signals may be obtained from the "Alphabetical spelling table," page 108, &c.

The private signal of the Resolute, for example, might be GYR on the list, which is represented by the signal flags C B W K.

NOTE.—The signal D W K T, page 258 of the COMMERCIAL CODE, must be changed in each copy to read "SYMBOLS CHANGE."

955 Make more sail

956 Mean to keep under a press of sail during the night, being anxious to weather the point in view, or get into indicated port.

957 Try rate of sailing

958 Form order of sailing in two columns

959 Form order of sailing in three columns

960 Form order of sailing ahead

961 Form order of sailing in line abreast

962 The ships, or boats, are to form as close as they can with safety

963 Lead the line, or column, pointed out

964 Quit the line, and form a separate division

965 Haul out of line, and take up a station to windward

966 Open line to admit senior officer, or look out ship

967 Form line as most convenient, without regard to order of sailing

968 Exchange places in line, or column

969 Invert the line from van to rear

Note—The leading ship, or boat, shorten sail; the next ship, or boat, in the line, makes sail, and passing the leading ship to windward, shortens sail when ahead of, and at a proper distance from his late leader, but now his second astern. The remaining ships, or boats, perform the same manœuvre, until all have passed, and the sternmost ship becomes the van ship. No ship is to pass his leader, until that leader is in his proper place. As soon as all the ships are in their proper places, the commanding officer will most probably make the signal to "make sail."

970 Invert the line, and act on the contrary tack

Note.—If on a wind the sternmost ship, or boat, is to tack, the rest to bear up together, and haul to the wind on the contrary tack, as they arrive in the wake of the rear ship.

If going free, all the ships are to wear together.

971 Form the order of sailing in two columns.

Note.—When the divisional flags accompany this signal, the upper flag will point out the "weather column," if sailing on a wind, and the "starboard column," if sailing large, or before the wind.

If on a wind, the senior officer will lead either column he may think proper. When sailing off the wind, he will most probably place himself between the two columns.

972 From the order of sailing in two columns, form in line of battle, in open order, or at a sufficient distance to afford space according to the state of the weather for tacking, or any other evolution.

Note.—The lee column is to continue on its course under very little sail. The weather column is to bear up together, and make sail, and preserving the relative bearing and distance, to haul to the wind together, and shorten sail when ahead of the lee column. When the column bears up, the leading ship should steer such a course as would enable the sternmost to take a station at least four cables' lengths ahead of the lee column.

N. B. In "line of battle," or "order of sailing," close order is to be considered two cables' lengths, and open order, four cables' lengths. Boat squadrons and small craft half those distances respectively.

973 From the order of sailing in two columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the starboard or weather column.

Note. — Weather column continues on its course under easy sail, lee column tack together, and preserving their relative bearing and distance, tack together again in the wake of the leading column.

The leader of the lee column is to make the necessary signals for tacking together.

974 From the order of sailing in two columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the lee column, the weather column forming the rear of the line.

Note.—The lee column is to make all sail, and continue on its course. The weather column is to bear round up together, and preserving their relative bearing and distance, haul their wind when in the wake of the lee column, which is then to shorten sail.

975 From the order of sailing in two columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the weather column, the lee column forming the van of the line

Note.—The weather column is to continue on its course with as little sail as possible. The lee column is to make all sail, and when the sternmost ship can weather the leading ship of the weather column she is to show her signal pendants. The column is then to tack together, and the ships preserving their relative bearings and distance, are to tack again together, and shorten sail when ahead of the weather column.

976 Form the order of sailing in three columns

When the squadron flags accompany this signal, the upper flag will point out the squadron which is to form on the starboard side of the centre, if sailing large, or before the wind, or to windward of it, if sailing by the wind. The flag next under it will point out the squadron which is to form the centre squadron, and the lowest flag will point out the squadron which is to form on the port side of the centre, if sailing large, or before the wind, or to leeward of it, if sailing by the wind.

The senior officer may lead either column he may think proper.

977 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the centre column.

Note.—The centre squadron will continue on its course, under easy sail. The van squadron bear away together. The lee squadron tack together, and both will form ahead and astern of centre squadron. The van and lee squadrons will get into their places as in forming with two columns.

978 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the centre column. The van forming the rear, and the rear the van of the line

Note.—The centre squadron will continue on its course under easy sail. The van will bear round up, and the rear will make all sail, and tack together when the sternmost ship can weather the leading ship of the centre squadron. The same minutiæ to be observed as in forming with two columns.

979 From the order of sailing in three columns form in line of battle, in open order, upon the centre column, the van to form the centre, and the centre the van of the line. The rear taking its proper station

Note.—The centre will make sail and continue on its course. The van will bear round up together, and haul to the wind again in the wake of the centre. The rear will tack together, and tack again when in the wake of the van, now forming the centre.

980 From the order of sailing in three colums, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the weather column

Note.—The centre and rear will tack together, and preserving their relative bearings and distance, will tack together again when in the wake of the van or weather column.

981 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the weather column, the rear to form the van, and the van the rear of the line

Note.—The van will continue on its course under very little sail. The centre and rear will make all sail, and when the sternmost ship of the centre squadron can weather the leading ship of the van, they will tack together; tacking again and shortening sail when ahead of the van. The rear will continue on its course under all sail, and when the sternmost ship can weather the leading ship of the centre squadron, they will tack together; tacking again and shortening sail when ahead of the centre.

982 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, on the weather column, the van forming the centre, the centre the van, and the rear taking its proper position

Note.—The van will continue on its course and carry very little sail. The centre will stand on under all sail and tack together, when the sternmost ship can weather the leading ship of the van, tacking again together and shortening sail when ahead of the van. The rear will tack together, and tack together again when in the wake of the van now forming the centre.

983 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the lee column

Note.—The centre and van will bear away together, and preserving their relative bearings and distance, will haul their wind when ahead of the lee column. The centre ahead of the rear, and the van ahead of the centre.

984 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the lee column, the van forming the rear, and the rear the van of the line

Note.—The rear will make all possible sail, the centre and van will bear up together, and haul to the wind, the centre in the wake of the rear, and the van in the wake of the centre.

985 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the lee column, the van forming the centre, and the centre the van of the line

Note.—The rear will continue on its course under very little sail, the centre will bear up together, and haul to the wind together again when ahead of the rear, leaving room for the van to form between them. The van will bear away together after the centre has given them sufficient room, and haul to the wind again together when ahead of the rear.

986 From the order of sailing in two or three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, upon the contrary tack, by the columns tacking in succession and forming on the weathermost column, the leading ships beginning the manœuvre

Note.—The van squadron will tack in succession, and carry very little sail. The lee squadron will tack in each other's wake, when in the wake of the van squadron.

987 From the order of sailing in three columns, form in line of battle, in open order, on the contrary tack, by columns wearing in succession and forming on the weathermost squadron, which is to lead the van

Note.—The leading ship of the van squadron begins the movement as soon as the signal is hauled down, the others following in succession. As soon as the last ship of the van squadron has put her helm up, the centre wears in succession, and comes to the wind in the wake of the van, which carries as little sail as possible. The ship leading the rear squadron, is in like manner to wear when the last ship of the centre has put her helm up, the rest following in succession and making all sail to regain distance. Each ship is to pass under the stern of the rear ship of her own squadron, before she hauls to the wind in line of battle.

988 Form the order of retreat in two lines of bearing

Note.—When it may be necessary to retreat from a superior force, the senior officer will, in the first instance, form his ships in a line ahead, with the wind abeam, placing himself in the centre. He will then make the signal for the starboard division to form on a particular bearing from him, and for the port division to form on another, extending or reducing the angular form as he may think proper. Should there be a convoy with him, they may be collecting to leeward whilst the ships-of-war are so forming in readiness to place themselves between the two lines.

If it should be requisite to form the order of retreat suddenly, the senior officer may direct the evolution to be performed without previously forming the line of battle ahead, by making the signal for the two divisions to form immediately on the particular lines of bearing he may point out.

989 Form the order of sailing to sail large

Note.—Definition of order of sailing in two columns.—If on a wind, the van forms the weather column, if sailing large, the starboard column. The columns are to be one mile and a half distant from each other, unless otherwise ordered by signal. Ships are to be in the wake of each other, and the leading ships to bear from each other in the direction of the wind if close hauled. If sailing large, the leading ships are to be abreast of each other.

Definition of order of sailing in three columns.—The centre squadron forms the centre squadron. The van to windward, if on a wind, or on the starboard side of the centre if going large or before the wind. The rear squadron to leeward, or on the port side. The leading ships are to bear from each other in the direction of the wind if close hauled, and abreast of each other if sailing large. The columns to be one mile distant from each other. Any alteration in the order of sailing is to be commenced by the leading ships, the others falling into their stations as soon as possible. Note when the divisions or squadrons are directed to draw nearer to or move further from each other, the movement is to be made by that division or squadron whose flag is uppermost; the other divisions or squadrons continuing to act as if no signal had been made. The signal will be kept flying until the leading ships are in the position the senior officer wishes. If line of battle be formed as most convenient, the ships are to divide, so as to bring the senior officer as nearly as possible in the centre. All ships ahead of him are then to be considered as the starboard division; all ships astern of him, the port division; and this is to be considered the order of battle until countermanded.

In performing any evolution, the ships are to shorten sail as requisite, but never to heave to unless absolutely necessary.

When ships are detached, fall out of the line, &c., the remaining ships are to close up to the proper distance from those ahead of them.

990 The port division is to form the port column

Note.—In executing this manœuvre, the leading ship of the port division is to pass astern of the leading ship of the starboard division, each of the others in like manner passing through their proper intervals. In order to expedite and facilitate this operation, the ships of the starboard division are to alter course together to starboard, and after the two divisions have passed each other, they are each gradually gaining their proper distance from each other, to resume their course.

991 The starboard division is to form the port column

Note.—In executing this manœuvre, the leading ship of the starboard division is to pass ahead of the leading ship of the port division, the second ship of the starboard division passing astern of the leading ship of the port division, and each of the others in like manner passing through their proper intervals. For expediting this manœuvre, see end of note above.

1148 Wear-s-ing-wore-n
1149 Wear immediately
1150 Wear together

Note.—The preparative flag will generally accompany this signal, as in all evolutions that are intended to be done together. When the preparative is hauled down, and the signal for the evolution is kept flying, the helms of all the vessels, or boats, are to be put up together, and they are to come to the wind on the other tack. Should, however, the preparative and the signal be hauled down together, the evolution is not to take place until the signal is hoisted again. If the signal is made without any preparative flag, the ships, or boats, are to be guided by the senior officer, who will put his helm up when he hauls the signal down.

1151 Wear in succession, and come to the wind on the other tack.

Note.—The signal for this evolution will be made without any preparative flag; and when all the ships, or boats, have answered, the senior officer will put his helm up, hauling down the signal at the same time. The other vessels are to follow in succession, as they can fetch into the wake of their leaders. The senior officer will pass under the stern of the sternmost ship of his own line, before he hauls to the wind on the other tack.

1152 Wear as convenient
1153 Wear, the sternmost ships first
1154 Wind. Keep close to the wind
1155 Keep to windward

Note.—If the senior officer, or other authorized person has reason to believe that the enemy has got possession of these signals, he will make the signal for changing the figures of the flags; and when that has been answered by every ship, he will hoist the numeral flags, one, two, or three at a time. The uppermost of those first hoisted is to represent one, the next below it two, and so on till all the flags have been hoisted, the tenth flag representing the cipher.

To prevent mistakes, every ship is to hoist the same flags as the flag ship, and in the same order.

SIGNALS FOR STEAMERS.

STEAMER'S CORNET,* HOISTED OVER, OR AT A DIFFERENT MAST-HEAD.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR STEAMERS PASSING EACH OTHER.

Steam vessels, under steam, are to keep themselves clear of the course of sailing vessels, and, when practicable, to pass astern and to leeward of them.

When steam vessels, not under sail, but on different courses, must unavoidably or necessarily cross so near that by continuing their respective courses there would be a risk of coming into collision, they are always to pass on the port side of each other.

A steam vessel passing another in a narrow channel must always leave the vessel she is passing on the port hand.

NIGHT SIGNALS.

BY COSTON'S PREPARED LIGHTS.

Any of the day signals in this Code may be made at night with Coston's lights.

The Colored Lights, as shown by the Chart below, take the place of the flags.

The different lights and the combinations of lights answering to the Numerals, Preparatory, and Answering Signals are prepared at the Laboratory, and each roll marked 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0, P, or A.

CHART OF LIGHTS AND NUMERICAL VALUES.

1.	2.	3.	4.	5.

6.	7.	8.	9.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

When it is desired to communicate by these lights, first use the P (preparatory) signal, and if answered by the A (answering) signal, shows that the preparatory signal was seen; after which, place in rapid succession, on the holder, the numbers desired to be communicated; for example, if the number selected should be 726, the No. 7 is placed on the holder and ignited, which will of course show a Green flame; as soon as the light is out, immediately replace it by No 2, which will show a White succeeded by a Red flame; and then replace with No. 6, Red and Green. If any further combination of numbers is to be signaled before receiving an answer, an interval of not more than three-quarters of a minute should be taken. Should this interval be exceeded, an answer may be returned.

The person stationed to note the colors telegraphed to him should be cautioned against looking at the brilliant flame of the signals burning near him, as thereby the eye is unfitted to discern distinctly the colors of distant lights.

To ignite the signal apply a lighted match-rope or port-fire.

The symbols embraced in the Chart of Coston's Lights may represent any other numerals, whenever it may be thought expedient to give them a different signification.

To report Vessels' or Boats' numbers, names, or other distinctions that may be assigned to them, at night, by Coston's Lights.

Inasmuch as there is no Light embraced in Coston's Method of a character similar to the "CORNET" among flags for day signaling, it becomes necessary to devise some simple mode by which a vessel or boat may signify its intention to make known its number, name, &c. This may be done by exhibiting the Preparatory Light P, followed immediately by a Rocket, and concluded by exhibiting the Lights answering to the name of the vessel, as found in this Code, (see List of Navy Vessels, page 142;) but if it be a Launch, Cutter, or other boat, the number answering to the Boat, (previously assigned to it, (see Boat Squadrons, page 150,) must be made. The observer will readily distinguish a boat from a vessel by the aid of the signal lights. The numbers, names, or other characteristic distinctions of all vessels not embraced in the List of Vessels in this Code must be inserted in writing as they are assigned previous to the departure of an expedition, or the list must be corrected by the addition of all the Vessels and Boats as they report for duty in the Flotilla.

TO CHANGE THE SIGNIFICATION OR NUMERICAL VALUE OF THE COSTON SYMBOLS BY SIGNAL AT NIGHT.

Make the signal (which will be found in this Code) "SYMBOLS CHANGE," in the same way that any other signal would be made. When this signal is answered by all the vessels of the Flotilla or Boat Squadron, it is to be understood that for the time being the values of the symbols are to be changed, so that 0 is to be read as 1; 9 is to be read as 2; 8 is to be read as 3; 7 is to be read as 4; 6 is to be read as 5; 5 is to be read as 6; 4 is to be read as 7; 3 is to be read as 8; 2 is to be read as 9, and 1 is to be read as 0.

Or, the signal may be made (if in the face of the enemy) "SYMBOLS CHANGE, No. 1 or No. 2."

These two last changes must, however, be determined upon by the Commander-in-Chief, and communicated to each Commander of a Division previous to the departure of a Flotilla or Boat Squadron on service.

PRIVATE NIGHT SIGNALS.

A private signal may be devised and made by these lights. Private signals for exhibition at night should be simple in combination, and, unlike all other signals, made with the same materials.

FLOTILLA AND BOAT SQUADRONS.

Numbers or distinctions of Vessels and Boats composing Flotilla and Boat Squadrons.

[The following list is to be known as the Boat Squadron List, in contradistinction to the list of vessels belonging to the Navy in this Code, on pages 142 to 146.]

No. 1. Flag-ship or Boat of Boat Squadron.
2. Commander of 1st Division's Boat.
3. Commander of 2d Division's Boat.
4. Commander of 3d Division's Boat.

NIGHT SIGNALS,

BY NAVY LIGHTS, ROCKETS, AND LANTERNS.

In case Coston's Prepared Lights are not supplied, or at hand, the Colored Lights furnished for NAVAL GENERAL SIGNALS may be used.

The "Symbols" may be employed according to the following Chart, or other numerals may be assigned to them.

CHART OF NAVY NIGHT SIGNALS SYMBOLS WITH NUMERALS ASSIGNED TO THEM.

1.	2.
One White Light.	One Blue Light.
3.	4.
One White Light, followed by One Blue Light.	One Red Light.
5.	6.
One White Light, followed by One Red Light.	One Blue Light, followed by One White Light.
7.	8.
One Blue Light, followed by One Red Light.	One Red Light. followed by One White Light.

9.	0.
One Red Light, followed by One Blue Light.	One Flash.

Preparatory Signal.

One Rocket.

Answering Signal.

One Lantern Light waved by hand.

To make signal to a particular Division, Column, Vessel or Boat, a Lantern will be hoisted or shown where it can be seen to the best advantage; then a Rocket will be sent up, which will indicate that signals are about to be made to a Division, Column, Boat or Vessel answering to a number in the Flotilla and Boat Squadron List, (page 150,) and which will be shown next. The number in that List corresponding to the Vessel or Boat, will then be made, and when answered, the Lantern Light will be lowered or masked.

Then proceed to make the signals in the ordinary way, using these lights to represent the numbers corresponding to the signals in this Code.

In making signals with these Lights, there should be an interval of about half a minute between the exhibition of a light or lights, representing one numeral of each signal, and about one minute should elapse between the conclusion of a signal and the commencement of another of a series of signals. There should be no eclipse or interval of darkness between the exhibition of lights representing a single numeral.

PRIVATE NIGHT SIGNALS.

Private Signals may be made with these Lights, but they must be determined upon, arranged and communicated by the Commander-in-Chief for all special expeditions or occasions.

TO CHANGE THE SIGNIFICATION OR NUMERICAL VALUE OF THE NAVY SIGNAL LIGHTS BY SIGNAL.

Proceed as in the case of the Coston Lights, only using the Navy General Signal Lights instead of Coston's.

OTHER NIGHT SIGNALS,

FOR BOATS, AND BOAT-SQUADRONS.

When Boat-Squadrons or Boats are not provided with the "Navy General Signal Lights," nor with the Coston Lights, night signals may be made with Blue Lights, Rockets, Flashes made in a flash pan, and guns and small arms.

No. 1. Two Rockets, (all lights having been previously extinguished or masked.)	Action, prepare for. (To be repeated by Commanders of Divisions.)
No. 2. Two Rockets, (all lights having been previously extinguished or masked,) followed by a gun or volley of musketry.	Action commence. (These rockets may be sent up when the Commanding Officer is ready to commence the action, and the first gun, or volley, will be the commencement of the action, as well as the signal for general action.)
No. 3. One Blue Light followed by Two Rockets in succession. (Repeat if necessary at the expiration of ten minutes.)	Action discontinue. (To be repeated by Commanders of Divisions.)
No. 4. A Gun, guns, or a volley of musketry, followed by One Blue Light.	Aground I am, in distress, or in want of assistance.
No. 5. One Blue Light followed by One Rocket.	Ahead, go and reconnoiter the enemy, squadron, vessels, batteries, or proposed landing, and report to the Commanding Officer. (The division, column, vessel, or boats' distinguishing signal, must follow this signal immediately.)
No. 6. One Lantern held steadily, with three flashes at intervals of one minute.	Anchor, having due regard to safety and previous orders.
No. 7. One Lantern, swung by hand, or, in the absence of a lantern, One Flash.	Assent, answer, or yes, in reply to a signal.

No. 8 One Blue Light, followed by One Rocket and Two Flashes.	Assist the vessel or boat, whose situation requires it.
No. 9. One Lantern and Three Rockets in quick succession.	Attack, a general, with all arms.
No. 10. One Lantern and One Rocket, followed by One Flash.	Attack the enemy's starboard wing, division, column, or quarter.
No. 11. One Lantern and One Rocket, followed by Two Flashes.	Attack the enemy's port wing, division, column, or quarter.
No. 12. Two Lanterns horizontal, and One Flash.	Attack and carry the enemy by boarding.
No. 13 One Lantern, One Blue Light, followed by One Rocket.	Attack the enemy with howitzers and rifle muskets or carbines at the most effective range.
No. 14. Two or more Flashes with Flash Pan.	Attention, give to my movements.
No. 15. One Rocket, (all lights being lowered or masked out of sight.)	Board the enemy on bow and quarter.
No. 16. Two Blue Lights burnt in succession.	Boats, all will return to their respective vessels, stations, or rendezvous.
No. 17. Two Blue Lights, followed by One Rocket.	Boats, recall, all detached.
No. 18. One Rocket, followed by Two Blue Lights.	Chase the enemy.
No. 19. Two Blue Lights, followed by Two Rockets.	Chase discontinue.
No. 20. Two Lanterns perpendicular.	Chase has tacked, or gone on the other tack.
No. 21. Two Lanterns horizontal, (all other lights being masked.)	Close order take and preserve.
No. 22. One Lantern where best seen, and One Blue Light.	Communicate I wish to, with the senior officer.
No. 23. One Gun, or volley of musketry, followed by One Blue Light and Rocket.	Danger is discovered. It is dangerous to proceed. We are in danger. Surrounded by dangerous shoals.
No. 24. Two Lanterns horizontal, and Three Rockets.	Enemy, the, is in sight, is approaching; is near us.
No. 25. One Lantern where best seen, and Two Rockets in succession.	Enemy, the stranger is.

No. 26. Two Lanterns horizontal, and One Blue Light.	Follow the motions of the Commanding Officer.
No. 27. Two Lanterns horizontal, and Two Blue Lights.	Form, or preserve, the "Order of Columns." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 96, 1860.)
No. 28. Two Lanterns horizontal, and One Rocket.	Form, or preserve, the "Order of Attack, three deep." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 96, 1860.)
No. 29. Two Lanterns horizontal, and Two Rockets.	Form, or preserve, the "Order ot Attack, two deep." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 97, 1860.)
No. 30. Two Lanterns perpendicular, and One Blue Light.	Form "line ahead." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 98, 1860.)
No. 31. Two Lanterns perpendicular, and Two Blue Lights.	"Change direction of the front." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 98, 1860.)
No. 32. Two Lanterns perpendicular, and One Rocket.	Form the "Order of Retreat." (See Ordnance Instructions, page 98, 1860.)
No. 33. Two Lanterns perpendicu- and Two Rockets.	Form, or preserve, the "First order of Steaming," (Steamers or Rowboats) See Diagram No. 1.

No. 1.

No. 36. Two Lanterns horizontal, and One Flash.	Haul by the wind on the starboard tack.
No. 37. Two Lanterns horizontal, and Two Flashes.	Haul by the wind on the port tack.
No. 38. One Lantern, One Musket, and Flashes.	Intelligence I have of the enemy; is near, or approaching.
No. 39. Three Lanterns perpendicular.	Land, prepare to, in the face of the enemy.
No. 30. Three Lanterns perpendicular, and One Rocket.	Land immediately, and form for attack, according to prescribed plan.
No. 41. Three Lanterns horizontal, and One Rocket.	Landing is, or will be opposed by force.
No. 42. Three Lanterns horizontal.	Landing is not, or will not be opposed by force.
No. 43. Three Lanterns horizontal, and Two Rockets.	Landing will be attended with danger.
No. 44. Three Lanterns perpendicular, and One Blue Light.	Land, approach no nearer.
No. 45. Three Lanterns perpendicular, and Two Rockets.	Lights, all, lower, extinguish, or mask.

No. 46. Three Lanterns perpendicular, and Two Blue Lights.	Make the best of your way to your rendezvous, station, ship or ships, in accordance with previous orders.
No. 47. One Blue Light.....	Position or positions show. (The answer to this signal will be a Blue Light.)
No. 48. Three Lanterns perpendicular, One Blue Light, followed by Three Rockets.	Recalls the vessel or boat, vessels or boats. (If to recall a division or column, the distinguishing signal will be made immediately after.)
No. 49. Three Lanterns perpendicular, One Blue, and Two Rockets in succession.	Relief, go to the, of the division column, or boat, whose distinguishing signal will be shown.
No. 50. Three Lanterns perpendicular, One Blue Light, followed by One Rocket in succession.	Resume your positions in the squadron, and preserve the present order.
No. 51. Two Lanterns horizontal, One Blue Light, followed by One Rocket.	1st Division or Squadron.
No. 52. Two Lanterns horizontal, Two Blue Lights, followed by Two Rockets.	2d Division or Squadron.
No. 53. Three Lanterns horizontal, One Blue Light.	3d Division or Squadron.
No. 54 Three Lanterns horizontal, Two Blue Lights.	Van Division or Squadron.
No. 55. Three Lanterns horizontal, One Blue Light, followed by One Rocket.	Centre Division or Squadron.
No. 56. Three Lanterns horizontal, One Blue Light, followed by Two Rockets.	Rear Division or Squadron.

Note.—When one or more Lanterns are employed in making the foregoing signals, they are to be kept up or visible until the whole of the signal is made. When the signal is completed, the lantern or lanterns will be hauled down or masked.

Signals made with Lanterns, Blue Lights, Rockets, and Flashes, should, as a general rule, be answered by waving a lantern by hand in front of the person holding it. When no Lantern is available, the Flash Pan and a flask of powder should be in readiness to make a flash as an answer to each signal.

Special distinguishing night signals or distinctions may be given to other Vessels or Boats than those at the head of Divisions or Squadrons in using the signals made with Blue Lights, Rockets, and Lanterns; but they must be determined upon and arranged for each special occasion.

Red, Blue, Green, and White Lanterns will serve to give a number of distinctions, such as:

No. 1. One Red Lantern Light.
2. One Green Lantern Light.
3. One Blue Lantern Light.
4. One Red and one White perpendicular.
5. One Red and one Blue perpendicular.
6. One Red and one Green perpendicular.
7. One White and one Red perpendicular.
8. One White and one Green perpendicular.
9. One White and one Blue perpendicular.
10. One Green and one White perpendicular.
11. One Green and one Red perpendicular.
12. One Green and one Blue perpendicular.
13. One Blue and one White perpendicular.
14. One Blue and one Red perpendicular.
15. One Blue and one Green perpendicular.
16. Two Red Lanterns horizontal.
17. Two Green Lanterns horizontal.
18. Two Blue Lanterns horizontal.
19. One Red and one White Lantern horizontal.
20. One Red and one Green Lantern horizontal.
21. One Red and one Blue Lantern horizontal.

As all vessels of the Navy, whether propelled by steam or sails, are required by the General Order of the Navy Department to carry Red and Green lights, and to have White lights on board for exhibition according to the directions embraced in that General Order, there will necessarily be spare Colored Lanterns, or spare Colored Glass, to replace any that may be broken, which may be used on occasions when Colored Lantern lights are required in making signals.

In case there should be neither spare Colored Lanterns nor spare Colored Glass for shades to ordinary lanterns, thin Red, Green, and Blue bunting stretched tightly around the horn or glass of the lanterns will give, for short distances, a sufficiently brilliant light and marked color to answer the purpose.

SIGNALS IN FOGS.

The sounding of Fog Horns, the long roll of drums, beating on an empty barrel, a watchman's rattle, or a boatswain's whistle.	Will denote being on the starboard tack. (To be answered by the same if on that tack.)
Small arms, fired singly, and at short intervals, or the ringing of a bell.	Will denote being on the port tack. (Answer according to the tack you are on.)
Guns, or volleys of musketry at short intervals.	Will indicate action with the enemy, or in want of assistance. The answer will be one gun, or two muskets fired in quick succession.

The movements of BOATS SAILING OR PULLING IN CLOSE ORDER, in fogs or at night when it is not advisable to show lights, may be regulated somewhat, by the Boatswain's call.

Pipe, veer, (repeat)	May indicate tack.
Pipe, belay, (repeat)	Down sail and out oars. (When this signal is made, if near or approaching the enemy, it is to be understood that the oars are to be muffled and that perfect silence is to be preserved.)
Pipe, haul in, heave in, or walk away, (repeat.)	Make sail.
Pipe, sweepers, (repeat)	Close up for attack.
Pipe, haul and hold, (repeated in quick succession.)	Give way with a will together, for a dash at the enemy.
Pipe to dinner	Prepare and proceed to anchor (or land as the case may be) near the senior officer in proper order.

STEAMERS

Having boats in tow, or not, will use their whistles to point out their positions and give information during Fogs, unless otherwise ordered by the Commanding Officer of the Squadron or Expedition.

A gun, or volley of musketry, followed by a long blast of the steam whistle, say ½ minute duration.	May indicate I am aground, or in distress, and require assistance. Disabled or damaged.
A long blast with the whistle, (½ minute duration,) followed by two short sharp blasts, with an interval of 5 seconds between each blast.	May indicate notice of the enemy, either approaching or stationary, but near by.
Two guns or volleys of musketry, followed by one long and three short blasts of the whistle, (intervals 5 seconds.)	May indicate anchor, or stop and await the orders or approach of the senior officer.
One long blast, (½ minute,) followed by two sharp short blasts at intervals of 5 seconds and repeated at the expiration of 5 minutes.	May indicate danger discovered near.
A short blast, repeated at intervals of 10 minutes.	May indicate the positions of the different steamers.

Other combinations may be made or different significations may be given to those named to suit occasions and circumstances.

EQUIPMENT OF BOATS ARMED FOR SERVICE.

(ORDNANCE INSTRUCTIONS, 1860.)

CHAPTER IV, (Page 94.)

EQUIPMENT OF BOATS.

When directed to be manned and armed for service.

---

316. Boats are to be provided according to the time they are to be absent and the nature of the service they are to perform, keeping in view the details prescribed in table article 333.

Boat Howitzers are to be distributed as follows :

317. In Ships-of-the-line and first class Propeller Frigates, each of their two Launches is to have a 24-pounder of 1,300 pounds weight, with a boat carriage ; and both the first and second Cutters are to have a 12-pounder of 750 pounds weight, with a boat and also a field carriage.

318. In all other Frigates, each of the two Launches is to have a 12-pounder of 750 pounds, with a boat and also a field carriage ; and the First Cutter is to have a 12-pounder of 430 pounds, with a boat carriage.

319. In Razee Sloops (Frigates cut down) and first class Propeller Sloops, the Launch is to have a 12-pounder of 750 pounds, with a boat and a field carriage ; and the First Cutter a 12-pounder of 430 pounds, with a boat carriage. In first and second class Sailing Sloops, the Launch is to have a 12-pounder of 750 pounds, with boat and field carriages.

320. In all other Sloops and Brigs, the Launch is to have a 12-pounder of 430 pounds, with a boat and a field carriage. Whenever the Howitzers are to be used in boats, they are to be fitted for the purpose as directed in pages 4, 5, and 6, of "Exercise and Manœuvre of Boat Howitzers."—(See Appendix D.) Their crews are to be armed with swords and revolvers.

321. For boarding parties, swords and revolvers and rifles loading at the breech, with filled cartridge boxes, are to be supplied.

322. When boats "manned and armed" are ordered, the officers assigned to the command of the boats will see that they are thus furnished, or otherwise, as may be specially directed. and report when the boats are ready. They will also see that all articles are safely returned, or duly accounted for, when the boats return to the vessel.

If the boats are directed to assemble alongside of any particular vessel, the officers are to report as they arrive there. If signalled alongside of the ship of the Commander of the Squadron for exercise or for inspection, they are to be inspected, if he shall so direct, by an officer appointed by him, whose duty it shall be to report hose which may be particularly well prepared and those which he may find deficient in equipment or arrangement, specifying particulars.

MANŒUVRES OF BOATS ARMED FOR SERVICE.

323. The boats of a vessel being completely armed and equipped as directed, they are to hoist their colors, shove off, and fall in as follows:

No. 1. First Launch.
No. 2. Second Launch.
No. 3. First Cutter.
No. 4. Second Cutter.
No. 5. Third Cutter.
No. 6. Fourth Cutter.

Or, if they be less than six in number, they are to fall in agreeably to the order of their size and designation, with the Senior Officer always in the leading boat.

The boats of each ship are to constitute a sub-division.

324. When the officer designated to command all the boats of a squadron has had them assembled, they are to form, in the above order, into as many columns as there are vessels to which the boats belong.

ORDER OF COLUMNS.

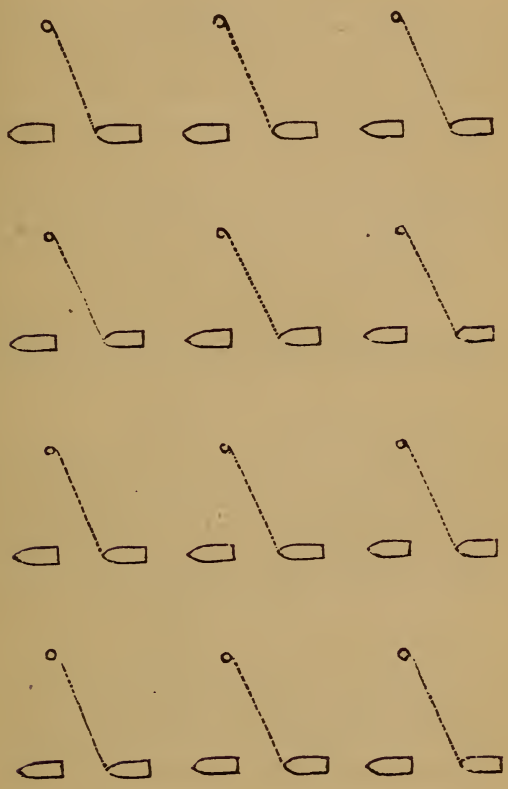
325. The order of seniority of the Commanding Officers of sub-divisions of boats is to regulate the relative position of the columns; and, supposing that the natural series of the alphabet represents this order of seniority, the columns will be as follows:

D.	B.	H.	F.	A.	G.	I.	C.	E.
2	2	2	2	2	2	2	2	2
3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4
5	5	5	5	5	5	5	5	5
6	6	6	6	6	6	6	6	6

This arrangement of boats is to be called the first order, and it is to serve as a basis for all other manœuvring.

TO FORM IN THE ORDER OF ATTACK, THREE DEEP.

326. Each even numbered boat of a column is be to placed to the right of the next ahead of it.

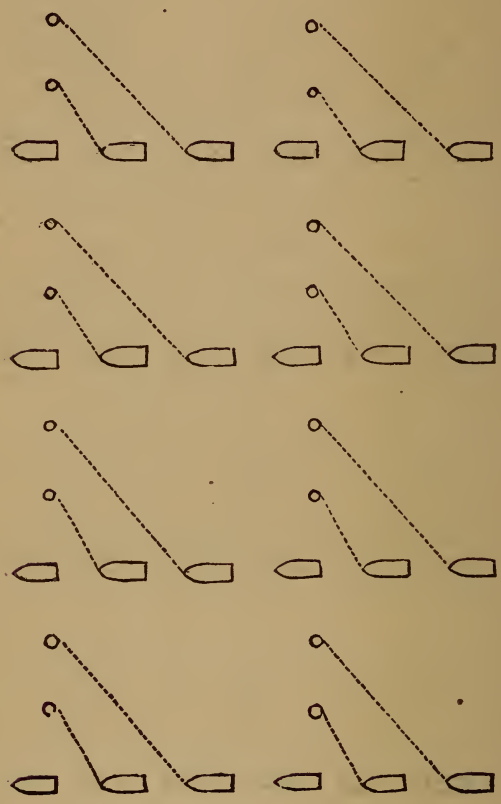


Thus, in the order of attack three deep, the boats will be arranged as follows:

D. 2	B. 2	H 2	F 2	A 2	G 2	I 2	C 2	E 2
3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.	3, 4.
5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.	5, 6.

TO FORM IN THE ORDER OF ATTACK, TWO DEEP.

327. In each column, boats Nos. 2 and 3 are to be placed to the right of No. 1, and boats Nos. 5 and 6 to the right of No. 4.



Thus, in the order of attack two deep, the boats will be arranged as follows:

D. 2 3	B 2 3	H 2 3	F 2 3	A 2 3	G 2 3	I 2 3	C 2 3	E 2 3
4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6	4 5 6

TO FORM IN THE FIRST ORDER.

328. To pass from either order of attack, just mentioned, to the First Order, the manœuvring is to be the inverse of that by which the order of attack is formed.

TO FORM LINE AHEAD.

329. The orders of attack being formed as designated, it is sufficient for all the boats together to alter the course eight points, one way or the other, to become arranged in a line ahead in two or three columns.

Being thus arranged in a line ahead, by returning back eight points, the boats will be again arranged in an order of attack, two or three deep.

TO CHANGE THE DIRECTION OF THE FRONT.

330. The evolution of changing the direction of the front of the orders of attack is effected by a general movement at the time the course, which the leaders of columns are to steer, is shown by signal.

TO FORM THE ORDER OF RETREAT.

331 This order is the reverse of the first order.

To pass from the first order to the order of retreat all the boats turn together sixteen points in the same way, and thus retire protected by the guns of the Launches.

FORMATION OF DIVISIONS.

332. Two or three divisions of attack may be formed to operate upon two or three points at the same time.

In the first case, the boats on the right, including those of the commanding officer, constitute the first division, and those on the left the second.

In the second case, the third of the boats on the left constitute the second division; the third on the right, the third division; and the third at the centre, the first division.

NOTE.—The manœuvres of boats armed for service, from Article 323 to 332, inclusive, are derived from the "Règlement sur le service Intèrieur a bord des batiments de la flotte," published by authority of the French government in 1852.

DETAILS OF THE FOREGOING TABLE.

334. Boat Carriage complete, consists of—Bed.
Slide.
Compressor plates.
Compressor screw bolts.
Compressor handles.
Lugs for loops.

335. Field Carriage complete, consists of—
Axle.
Trail.
Braces.
Lugs for loop.
Trail wheel or runner.
Bolt for runner.
Socket for handspike.
Elevator.
Disc of elevator.
Box for elevator.

FIXTURES IN BOATS FOR BOAT GUNS.

336. Two eye-bolts on each bow to receive the hooks of the skid; two cross-pieces, of yellow pine, to bear the carriage, so as to carry the muzzle of the howitzer just above and clear of the gunwale and stem.

One piece of yellow pine scantling, placed lengthwise and amidship, morticed into the rear cross piece, to sustain the carriage in sweeping.

MOVABLE PIECES.

337. Six pivot plates and bolts—one at the stem, one at the stern, one at each bow, and one on each quarter; two light wooden tracks to lay along the thwarts for the wheels of field carriage and the slide of boat carriage; one midship wheel track for the trail of field carriage; two stout skids, each fitted at one end with two hooks, and connected at the shore end by an iron brace.

The chocks, with rollers at the stem and stern posts of launches, are arranged to be removed when the gun is to be used.

IMPLEMENTS FOR SHIFTING THE HOWITZER FROM BOAT TO FIELD CARRIAGE.

338. One muzzle block.
One selvagee strap.
One shifting spar.
One short iron or wooden bolt, which will enter the breeching hole, to keep the piece on the right slue.

IMPLEMENTS COMPLETE FOR SERVING AND WORKING THE HOWITZER.

339. Breeching for boat gun, (if deemed necessary.)
Lock with lock-string.

Elevating screw.
Sight.
Priming wire.
Boring bit.
Vent cloth.
Sponge and rammer.
Sponge and rammer, spare.
Spring spike.
Rat-tail file.
Haversack, with strap, for captain of howitzer, to contain a supply of primers, spare fuses, spare lock, vent bit, vent cloth, and implements for spiking; leather ammunition pouches for each of the men of the field gun, except Nos. 1 and 2, to be supplied by the quarter gunner, with one round of ammunition each, a set of common fuses, and two primers, when the order to land is given.
Drag rope, fitted with hooks and handles.
Trail handspike.
A rope or chain to lock the wheels in descending slopes.

AMMUNITION.

340. A chest containing shrapnel.
A chest containing shell.
A chest containing canister.
These chests are of two sizes; the single, holding nine, and double, eighteen rounds.
A key is becketed to each box for unscrewing the lid.
Cutting tool for opening the Bormann fuse.

FOR SMALL ARMS.

341. Cartridge boxes and belts, furnished with cartridges and percussion caps, screwdriver, cone-key, and wiper.
An empty powder tank for magazines, to contain filled cartridge boxes and spare cartridges.

SMALL ARMS.

342. Breech-loading guns, in loops or brackets under the gunwale of the boat, protected by a water-proof canvas covering, running round the rising of the boat.
Rifles.
Revolvers.
Swords.
Boat arm chest.
A good tarpaulin to cover ammunition, &c.

PROVISION.

343. Pork, (to be cooked if there be time.)
Bread, in water-proof bag.
Cheese.
Whiskey, in breaker.
Fresh water, in kegs; always to be used for ballast when ballast is required.
Fuel and kindling.

UTENSILS AND ARRANGEMENTS FOR COOKING.

344. A box of sand to make a fireplace in the boat.
A proper vessel for cooking.
A small frying pan.
Mess kettle.
Tin pots and spoons.
Grog measure.
Funnel.
Bucket.

TOOLS AND ARTICLES FOR REPAIRING DAMAGES.

345. Axe, one for each boat.
Hatchet, one for each boat.
Hammer, one for each boat.
Hand saw, one for each boat.
Nails, 2 pounds, for each launch, 1½ pounds for each large cutter, and 1 pound for each of the rest.
Sheet lead, 3 square feet for each launch, and 2 square feet for each cutter.
Tacks, (number,) 100 for each launch, 75 for each large cutter, and 50 for each of the rest.
Marlinspike.
Spun yarn.
Grease.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES.

346. Boat ensign.
Set of signals of senior officer.
Boat compass for boats.
Spy-glass.
Lead and line.
Lantern.
Candles.
Tinderbox, with flint and steel.
Fishing lines and hooks.

FOR TREATMENT OF SICK AND WOUNDED.

347. Tourniquets.
Bandages.
Lint.
Medicines.
Surgical instruments.

BOAT GEAR.

348. Masts
Spars.
Rigging.
A set of oars fitted with trailing lines long enough to allow them to trail alongside in the water.
Three boat-hooks.
Spare oars, with trailing lines, for one thwart.

Small thrum mats, for muffling oars when required.
Anchor.
Chain or rope.
Hand grapnels, fitted with a fathom of light chain, and five fathoms of line.
Sails.
Awning and stancheons.
Tent awning. (See drawing.)
N. B In order to avoid delay and confusion when boats are called away for service, it is recommended that the articles required by the foregoing lists should be kept separately in the storerooms, in convenient packages for stowage in the boats and protection against weather. The contents of each package should be marked on it, together with the name of the boat for which it is intended. Particular attention should be paid by the executive officer of the vessel to the best and most compact stowage of all articles required for boat expeditions, which will necessarily vary according to the size of the boat and the nature of the service she is to perform.

NOTES ON THE USE OF BOAT HOWITZERS.

Derived from the "Boat armament of the United States navy," 1856, originally reported to the Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography by Commander Dahlgren, 1852.

319. N. B. Before equipping boats with the howitzers notice attentively the "hints for general service," commencing at page 146, and "suggestions for landing," page 127, of that system, which relate more especially to the condition and management of boat guns.

350. "Too much care cannot be taken to be fully provided, and to have each detail in good condition; for, after the boat has left the ship, it may be impossible to compensate for failure in some seemingly trivial article."

351. The chief purposes of naval light artillery are:
1. To attack small vessels that are lightly armed and furnish but slight protection to the crews.
2. To contend with other armed boats.
3 To cover the landing of regular troops.

352. The landing of seamen is rather a remote contingency in the naval service, and should never be resorted to when opposed by good infantry, or when the object to be attained would take the seamen too far from their boats, which should be the base of operations.

BOAT GUNS.

353. No tackles are required to run out 12-pounders; 24-pounders may possibly require them.

354. The hole in the cascable for reeving a breeching has been purposely omitted in howitzers recently cast, as hitherto the use of a breeching has not been found necessary. Should one be required a thimble may be fitted to the neck of the knob to serve in the place of this hole With a breeching the piece may be fired as if on an ordinary carriage.

355. The recoil is controlled by compressing the slide between the bed and the lower plate. It is necessary, however, that the surfaces of the carriage to be in contact should be plane. If they are not so, dismount the gun and examine them, and where the wood is worn smooth remove it in the slightest manner and correct the surfaces generally, which will be found to reduce the recoil. In making the surface plane it is by no means necessary that it should be rendered smooth. It ought to be as little so as possible for the present purpose.

FIELD CARRIAGE.

356. In order to moderate the recoil on smooth ground take out the axle or pin of the trail wheel and turn the wheel up on the trail.

In using the howitzer on shore one or two double boxes of ammunition may be lashed under the axle of the field carriage. When more than a single piece is landed it may be found convenient to secure the trail of one field carriage to the axle of another, and then by means of pieces of stuff, or boats' spars, secured from axle to axle, to place the ammunition boxes, provisions, pouches, &c., upon them.

357. Shrapnel may be effectively used where the dispersion of common canister becomes too great and its effects feeble. It takes the place of common shell to a great extent when uncovered masses of men are in view, and is designed to burst in front of troops, and at just such a distance and height as to disperse the balls among them.

358. Similar terms are used in marking the sight and the fuse, thus: if the fuse be adjusted to 2″ and the piece elevated by the sight raised to the line on it marked 2″, then the shrapnel will burst about 500 yards from the piece and spread its balls from that point to a considerable distance farther—effectively at least 150 yards. The adjustment of the fuse to the distance and the altitude of explosion are regulated to the elevation; and, therefore, the three conditions to good effect may be said to depend mainly on a correct knowledge of distance.

359. The 12-pounder shrapnel contains 80 musket balls, and if its explosion occur at one hundred or one hundred and twenty yards in front of the object, one-seventh of the number of balls may be relied on to take effect on an object 20 by 10 feet square.

360. The shell may be advantageously substituted for shrapnel when the hostile force is sheltered, especially by such quarters as small craft or merchantmen afford, or when material of any kind is the object of the fire.

361. At a couple of hundred yards canister only is required.

FUSES.

362. When provided with the Bormann fuse the shrapnel, or shell, as issued is complete. The upper surface of this fuse is graduated into seconds and fourths of seconds, and it is only necessary to lay bare the composition contained in the fuse by the cutting tool to prepare the projectile for instant use. In this respect the Bormann fuse has an advantage over the ordinary fuse.

363. The ordinary fuse consists of a wooden tube driven into the shrapnel after the balls are put in, which is to receive a paper case containing the composition. Five of these fuses are allowed to each shrapnel, their times of burning being, respectively, 1″, 2″, 3″, 4″, and 5″. They are packed in a paper case, and before the shrapnel is placed in the howitzer a fuse of the time supposed to correspond to the distance is selected and inserted in the wooden tube. The shells for howitzers are fitted in the same manner.

364. Both shrapnel and shells fused in this way must be charged with powder while preparations are in progress for clearing and getting ready the boats. These charges are—

	Shrapnel.	Shell.
For the 12-pounders	$4\frac{1}{4}$ oz.	0 5 lb.
For the 24-pounders	6 oz.	1.0 lb.

The charges are adapted to these quantities. After the shell has been charged the orifice of the plug should be closed with a tow stopper.

365. Fixed ammunition is preferable on the score of greater convenience and of avoiding difficulties.

366. Moistening the sponge is recommended. Brightening howitzers is not approved.

Note to note to signal 708 (page 10) " Evolutionary Boat Signals."

After the word "landing," at the end of the note, add "Circumstances may make it necessary for the boats to anchor and veer to, sufficiently to land the troops and then haul off, in readiness for such subsequent operations as may be required."

GENERAL ORDER.

To prevent collisions at sea, the following lights and fog signals are hereby adopted and ordered to be carried into practice and strictly observed by all steam and sailing vessels of the United States navy.

ISAAC TOUCEY,
Secretary of the Navy.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, November 10, 1858.

STEAM VESSELS.

All sea-going steam vessels, when under steam, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit the following lights:

1. A bright White light at the foremast head.
   A Green light on the starboard side.
   A Red light on the port side.

2. The Mast-head light shall be so constructed as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least 5 miles, and shall show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, and it shall be so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz: from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side.

3. The Green light on the starboard side and the Red light on the port side hall be so constructed as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least 2 miles, and show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, and they shall be so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the starboard and on the port sides respectively.

4. The side lights are to be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent the lights from being seen across the bow.

5. Steam vessels, under sail only, are not to carry their Mast-head light.

FOG SIGNALS.

All sea-going steam vessels, whether propelled by paddles or screws, when their steam is up, and when under way, shall, in all cases of fog, use as a Fog Signal a Steam Whistle, placed before the funnel at not less than 8 feet from the deck, which shall be sounded once at least every five minutes; but when the steam is not up, they shall use a Fog Horn or Bell, as ordered for sailing ships.

SAILING VESSELS.

1. All sea-going sailing vessels, when under way or being towed, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit a Green light on the starboard side and a Red light on the port side of the vessel, and such lights shall be so constructed as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the starboard and on the port sides respectively.

2. The colored lights shall be fixed whenever it is practicable so to exhibit them; and shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent the lights being seen across the bow.

3. When the colored lights cannot be fixed (as in the case of small vessels in bad weather) they shall be kept on deck between sunset and sunrise, and on their proper sides of the vessel, ready for instant exhibition, and shall be exhibited in such a manner as can be best seen on the approach of, or to, any other vessel or vessels, in sufficient time to avoid collision, and so that the Green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the Red light on the starboard side.

FOG SIGNALS.

All sea-going sailing vessels, when under way, shall, in all cases of fog, use when on the starboard tack a Fog Horn, and when on the port tack shall ring a Bell. These signals shall be sounded once at least every five minutes.

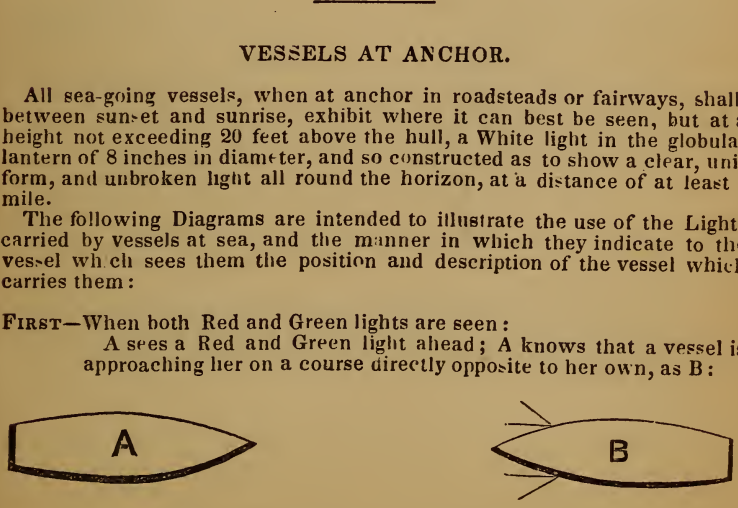
VESSELS AT ANCHOR.

All sea-going vessels, when at anchor in roadsteads or fairways, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a White light in the globular lantern of 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 1 mile.

The following Diagrams are intended to illustrate the use of the Lights carried by vessels at sea, and the manner in which they indicate to the vessel which sees them the position and description of the vessel which carries them:

FIRST—When both Red and Green lights are seen:

A sees a Red and Green light ahead; A knows that a vessel is approaching her on a course directly opposite to her own, as B:



If A sees a White Mast-head light above the other two, she knows that B is a steam vessel.

SECOND—When the Red and not the Green light is seen:

A sees a Red light ahead or on the bow; A knows that either, 1, a vessel is approaching her on her port bow, as B, or, 2, a vessel is crossing in some direction to port, as D D D.

If A sees a White Mast-head light above the Red light, A knows that the vessel is a steam vessel, and is either approaching her in the same direction, as B, or is crossing to port in some direction, as D D D.

THIRD—When the Green and not the Red light is seen:

A sees a Green light ahead or on the bow; A knows that either, 1, a vessel is approaching her on her starboard bow, as B; or, 2, a vessel is crossing in some direction to starboard, as D D D.

If A sees a White Mast-head light above the Green light, a knows that the vessel is a steam vessel, and is either approaching her in the same direction, as B, or is crossing to starboard in some direction, as D D D.

RULES OF THE ROAD.

"When vessels shall be crossing each other on different tacks, and there shall be any doubt which can pass to windward with perfect safety, the ship on the Starboard tack shall keep her wind, and the vessel on the Port tack shall keep away, without any regard being paid to rank of the respective commanders."

"Vessels going with the wind free always to give way to those by the wind."

"Vessels under steam alone shall always give way to sailing vessels."

"All vessels are to bear up, shorten sail, steam slower, or back in such manner as may be most convenient to prevent collision."—(Directions: Signals U. S. Navy, adopted July 13, 1858.)

LIGHTS TO BE CARRIED AT NIGHT AND DIRECTIONS TO PREVENT COLLISION.

By the General Order of the Navy Department, (see ante) "All sea-going steam vessels, when under steam, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit the following lights:

"A bright White light at the Foremast head.

"A Green light on the Starboard side.

"A Red light on the Port side."

"Steam vessels under sail only, are not to carry their Masthead light."

SAILING VESSELS.

"All sea-going sailing vessels, when under way or being towed, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit a Green light on the Starboard side, and a Red light on the Port side of the vessel." * * * * *

FOG SIGNALS.

"All sea-going steam vessels, whether propelled by paddles or screws, when their steam is up, and when under way, shall in all cases of Fog use as a Fog signal a Steam Whistle, * * * * * which shall be sounded once at least every five minutes; but when the steam is not up, they shall use a Fog horn or bell, as ordered for sailing ships."

"All sea-going sailing vessels, when under way, shall, in all cases of Fog, use when on the Starboard tack a Fog horn, and when on the Port tack, shall Ring a Bell. These Signals shall be sounded once at least every five minutes."

VESSELS AT ANCHOR.

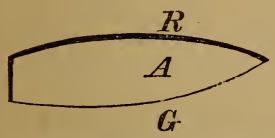
"All sea-going vessels, when at anchor in roadsteads or fairways, shall, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a White Light in a Globular Lantern of 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 1 mile."

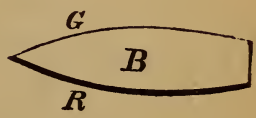
Although the foregoing directions of the Navy Department are only imperative on board vessels of the Navy, yet as a general rule all the sea and other steamers of the United States conform to them.

The British, French, Netherlands, and Russian Governments, have issued orders requiring all the vessels sailing or steaming under their respective flags to carry the lights and conform strictly to regulations of similar tenor to those of the Navy Department of November 10, 1858, (ante.)

The following Diagrams and illustrations may be useful for reference. The letter G will signify a Green light, and R a Red light.

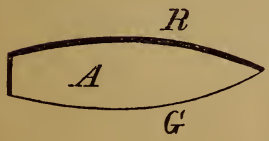
1st Situation.

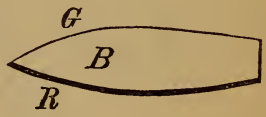




In this situation the two Colored lights visible to each vessel, will indicate their direct approach head on. The general, if not universal, rule in this case is, for BOTH VESSELS TO PUT THEIR HELMS TO PORT. In England this rule is imperative.

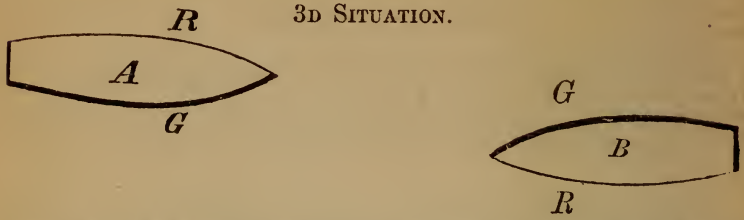
2d Situation.





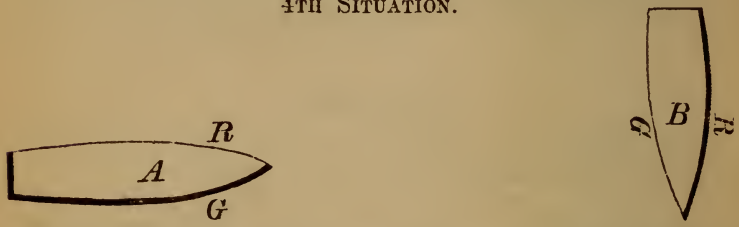
In this situation, the vessels placed as A and B will see the Red light only, of each other, the screens hiding the green lights from that point of view, showing that they are passing to PORT; but if in any doubt, as to the distance they would pass, by continuing their course, both should PORT their helm until out of all danger of collision.

3d Situation.



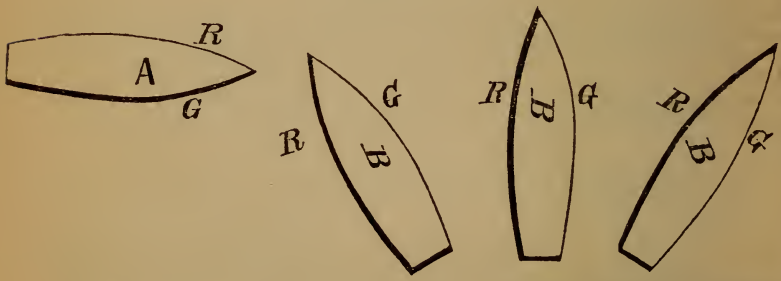
With A and B in this position the Green light only of each vessel will be seen, showing that they are passing to Starboard. The precaution, to give a good berth in passing, should be taken, by putting the helms of both vessels to Starboard until out of all danger of collision.

4th Situation.



In this situation A will see B's Green light only, which will clearly show that B is crossing to starboard of A, either perpendicular to A's course, or obliquely to it. B will, as he approaches the line of A's course, see A's Red light, and as he passes ahead will open both Colored lights, as well as the White (masthead) light, (if a Steamer,) indicating that A is steering directly towards him.

5th Situation.



In this situation the steamer A will see only the Red light of the steamer B, in either of the three positions she may be in. A will know that the Port side of B is towards him, and that B is crossing the bows of A in some direction to Port. Under these circumstances A should Port his helm without hesitation, to give B a good berth in passing.

In either of the positions of B in the fifth diagram he will see the Green, White, and Red lights of A in a triangular shape, (if a Steamer,) which will show B clearly that A is approaching directly towards him, and he should act promptly to guard against a collision.

6TH SITUATION.

In this situation A will see a Green light on the bow, or nearly ahead. If A sees a White Masthead light at the same time, he knows that it is a steamer, and that she is either approaching him on the port bow, as in situation B 3, or crossing his bows to starboard perpendicularly to his line of course or obliquely from, or obliquely towards him. B will see, first, A's Red light, and after drawing ahead, his White (masthead) light also, if a steamer.

7TH SITUATION.

In this situation A will see B's Red light, and will know that B's Port side is nearest to him, and therefore that B is passing across his bows to Port If A should see B's White masthead light at the same time that he sees the Red light, he will know that it is a steamer, and is passing either directly or obliquely across his bows. If he sees the Red light only, he will know that B, if a steamer, is passing to starboard of the line perpendicular to his course.

8TH SITUATION.

This is a very common situation for vessels to be placed in at sea, and one demanding great caution and watchfulness. A sees B's Red light and White (masthead) light, if a steamer. B sees A's Green light and White (masthead) light, if a steamer, which will show them that they are approaching each other. This is a case for which no general or certain rule can be laid down. Circumstances must be considered at the time, and they must be the guide in acting.

RULES OF THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY.

RULE AS TO VESSELS PASSING EACH OTHER.

"Whenever any vessel proceeding in one direction meets a vessel proceeding in another direction, and the master or other person having charge of either such vessel perceives that if both vessels continue their respective courses they will pass so near as to involve any risk of a collision, he shall put the helm of his vessel to Port, so as to pass on the Port side of the other vessel, due regard being had to the tide, and to the position of each vessel with respect to the dangers of the channel, and, as regards sailing vessels, to the keeping of each vessel under command; and the master of any steam vessel navigating any river or narrow channel, shall keep as far as practicable to that side of the fairway or mid-channel thereof which lies on the starboard side of each vessel." * * * *

RULES FOR SAILING AS WELL AS STEAM VESSELS.

"Whereas, the recognized rule for sailing vessels is, that those having the wind fair shall give way to those on a wind:

"That when both are going by the wind, the vessel on the Starboard tack shall keep the wind, and the one on the Port tack bear up, thereby passing each other on the port hand:

"That when both vessels have the wind large, or abeam, and meet, they shall pass each other in the same way on the port hand; to effect which two last mentioned objects, the helm must be put to port:

"And as steam-vessels may be considered in the light of vessels navigating with a fair wind, and should give way to sailing vessels on a wind on either tack, it becomes only necessary to provide a Rule for their observance when meeting other steamers or sailing vessels going large."

RULE.

"When steam-vessels on different courses must unavoidably or necessarily cross so near that by continuing their respective courses there would be a risk of coming in collision, each vessel shall put her helm to Port, so as always to pass on the Port side of each other.

"A steam-vessel passing another in a narrow channel must always leave the vessel she is passing on the Port hand."

DISTRESS, OR ASSISTANCE SIGNALS.

TO BE MADE WITHOUT FLAGS OR SIGNAL BOOKS.

(Boats' crews should be taught these Signals)

---

1. Want a Boat.

Hat, cap, flag, garment, handkerchief, bundle of sea-weed, or branch of tree or shrub, waved by right hand from head to foot.

2. Want a boat for sick or wounded.

Hat, cap, bundle, or branch of a tree or shrub held perpendicularly over the head.

3. Wrecked, or in a sinking condition.

Hat, cap, bundle, or any object which may be readily held in each hand at arms length, perpendicular to the body.

4. In distress for food and water.

Hat, cap, or bundle held out in each hand at arms length over the head.

5. The enemy is approaching, or close upon me.

Hat, cap, bundle, garment, or other object waved quickly over the head.

6. Cannot make any headway, or losing ground; send a line astern by a float or assistance.	Hat, cap, flag, handkerchief, or garment in the right hand, with the arm extended at full length and straight from the body.
7. Return to the shore, ship, or place of departure.	A small open flag waved horizontally or held with both hands by the corners so as to be blown out by the wind.

These Signals should be continued by the person in distress, or asking for assistance, until repeated by the ship or boat addressed.

The person answering the Signals should take a prominent position, and show as much of his person as possible while repeating the Signal.
